Arrival to Tel Aviv

We expect all of you would be arriving no later than Saturday night to Israel. You will be landing in Ben Gurion International Airport, located a few km from Tel Aviv.

<http://www.iaa.gov.il/RASHAT/en-US/Airports/BenGurion>

You first need to exchange for some local currency as most commerce is taking place in NIS (New Israeli Shekel). 1 Euro \approx 4.80 NIS

There are two ways to get to Tel Aviv:

Taxi: get a formal taxi from the airport. You can either get the meter, or arrange a fixed price ahead of the ride. The usual fixed fare to anywhere in Tel Aviv should be around 150 NIS (about 30 Euros). Could be a little more if it's later in the evening.

Train: a cheaper option is taking the train from the airport to Tel Aviv and then take a local taxi to the hotel. Problem is that service on Saturday is very limited.

There are three trains only on Saturday:

21:28

22:41

23:42

You need to get off at "Tel Aviv – Hashalom". Ride costs 16 NIS (3.3 Euros). Then take a taxi to the hotel (this should cost no more than 50 NIS).

The Hotel

We asked all of you to reserve a room at the Center Chic Hotel. It's a nice, modest boutique hotel in the center of Tel Aviv. Here are the details of the hotel:

Center Chic Hotel

2 Zamenhoff Street, Tel Aviv (on Dizingoff square)

Reservations: +972-3-5425555

Lobby and Reception: +972-3-5266100

We arranged a special price of 120 euros per night, including breakfast.

The University

We will have our workshop at the Open University of Israel located some 20 km north of Tel Aviv in the city of Ra'anana in the 15 and 16 of June.

We will have a shuttle bus that will take us to the university in the morning and will take us back to Tel Aviv in the early evening. It's really important that you do not miss the ride as it is quite a hustle to get to the campus on your own.
